GALORE CREEK PROJECT UPDATE

President Pol Guzman goes into planned retirement

President of GCMC, Mr. Pol Guzman, has entered back into retirement. This was planned for several months and is not a result of the economic times. Pol will still remain a consultant with Teck and will be available if he is needed. Pol joined the Galore Creek Project as the President & General Manager in January 2008 and in a short period of time has been successful in managing many complex issues on various levels.

His extensive background, experience and management skills on international multifaceted projects in the past has contributed towards defining a new path forward for the Galore Creek Project. His participative leadership style and sincere interest in the project have contributed to developing an outstanding team and a future for the project.

Not only is Pol well respected in the mining industry for his dedication, resilience and commitment to achieve set objectives, but his contribution to GCMC and his insight, and unquestionable commitment have been an asset to us.

In light of Pol's departure Henri Letient will assume the role of Project Manager. Henri joined the project in January 2008 as Manager, Environmental, Health and Safety and Community Relations. Henri has extensive project management experience on international mining projects. His experience at the Antamina Mine in Peru which is of similar size and as challenging as the Galore Creek Project has been very valuable in advancing this project. In August 2008, Henri was appointed Vice President, Environment and External Affairs of GCMC and will continue in this role as well.

The Galore Creek Project is still in the Care and Maintenance phase and will remain there until further notice. This past year major rock work was completed to allow several challenging sections of road to be connected. Bridge connections at the Lower More, Kossman, Moose and several other smaller crossings were also completed. This will allow the removal of excess equipment that will be put up for sale.

Some major contractors involved in this feat were TNDC, TNES, Bear Creek Contracting, Tomahawk Welding, and Marion Brothers and of course GCMC's own crew of construction employees.

At present we have a skeleton crew at Sus camp, maintaining GCMC's assets. The main concern will be to keep the snow from overcoming our camps and to keep the road open to Sus camp and possibly the staging area. Our security is also cut back in the winter months, so the gate hours have changed to a 6:00 pm closure and locked gate.

In the Spring we will be dealing with the Spring Freshet and will be looking after all maintenance concerning any environmental issues due to the Spring run off.
